One of the primary goals of this Java book is to prepare students for the AP test. Another is to prepare for competition...and in the process, learn Java. Over the years, I have seen such competition make a significant difference in the lives of many students. If a teacher is not gentle in this approach to competition you can easily "burn-out" students....especially if you continually bombard ...

The largest living bird, a member of the Struthioniformes, is the ostrich (Struthio camelus), from the plains of Africa and Arabia. A large male ostrich can reach a height of 2.8 metres (9.2 feet) and weigh over 156 kilograms (344 pounds). A mass of 200 kg (440 lb) has been cited for the ostrich but no wild ostriches of this massive weight have been verified.

The largest organisms now found on Earth can be determined according to various aspects of an organism's size, such as: mass, volume, area, length, height, or even genome size. Some organisms group together to form a superorganism (such as ants or bees), but such are not classed as single large organisms. The Great Barrier Reef is the world's largest structure composed of living entities ...

Have you ever taken a look on CodeAvengers.com. I stopped learning JS on codecademy after realizing I was making little improvement. I learned Java back in college, so I had little experience with coding and most syntax used in programming languages (that's not to say the two are similar but some thought process is common in different languages).

We expect to find a hidden state neuron that counts the number of a's if we look at its internals. And we do: I built a small web app to play around with LSTMs, and Neuron #2 seems to be counting both the number of a's it's seen, as well as the number of b's. (Remember that cells are shaded according to the neuron's activation, from dark red [-1] to dark blue [+1].)
