I noticed yesterday that my black lab would cry/ whine when she gets up after laying down for a long period of time. When she gets up she kind of limps and looks stiff when walking, after walking around for a little bit she walks somewhat normal and jumps around like nothing is wrong with her. I have squeezed her legs all over and she doesn't whine or anything.

Warning: At present it appears that Rimadyl will cause liver damage in some dogs. There have been some deaths in dogs with this reaction, although I think that the use of the word "many" is misleading. The predominant breed affected by this reaction has been the Labrador retriever but there are reports of other breeds being affected.
