There is a difference between learning how to write a case study and learning how to write a case study that is memorable. That persuades. That sings from the rooftops, "Just look at these results — you know you want to work with us!". Unfortunately, many of the case studies I've read are boring, self-aggrandizing, and uninspiring.

Handloading or reloading is the process of loading firearm cartridges or shotgun shells by assembling the individual components (case/hull, primer, powder, and bullet/shot), rather than purchasing completely assembled, factory-loaded ammunition. The term handloading is the more general term, as it refers to assembly of ammunition using components from any source.

Intersection density is the number of intersections in an area. It corresponds closely to block size — the greater the intersection density, the smaller the blocks. Small blocks make a neighborhood walkable. This diagram shows three street layouts — extremely walkable, moderately walkable, and unwalkable — with their counts of intersections per square mile:
